Moment

Once a day, the world writes together.

A daily journaling app. One prompt. One photo. Five minutes.

HOW IT WORKS

Three quiet steps.

One

A moment arrives

At a random time each day, a notification appears. Your moment is here.

Two

Capture it

Write what comes to mind. Take a photo. You have five minutes before it's sealed.

Three

See the world

You're connected to a stranger's moment — their words, photo, and city.

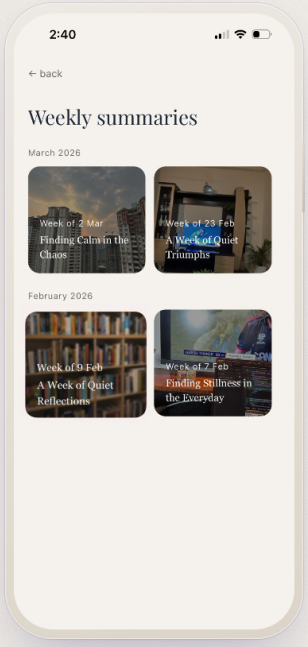

THE ARCHIVE

Every moment, kept.

Your entries are saved in a visual archive — organized by month, each one a snapshot of who you were that day.

REFLECTIONS

The patterns you don't notice.

Each week and month, Moment writes you a summary — the themes, the shifts, the words you kept returning to. Like a letter from your past self.

WHY ONE MOMENT?

Most apps want more of your time. Moment wants less. One prompt. One photo. Five minutes. No streaks. No likes. No profiles. Just the practice of noticing what's already here — and knowing that somewhere, a stranger is doing the same.
